If the preference is in the Fall, should we hold the reunion for the interservice (AF vs Army) home game on the first weekend in November with an option to attend the game at the stadium or streamed at the reunion hotel?

ESSAY

Lodging Thoughts for consideration:

Most reunions feature a central lodging facility with nearby overflow accommodations. Planning factors include cost, elegance, meals, and so forth. Hotels in the Colorado Springs area span from great elegance at a cost to less elegant facilities with more flexible arrangements such as banquet facilities. The Broadmoor is the most expensive with excellent banquet accommodations, whereas the Elegante is the least costly (50s décor) and can accommodate everyone at a banquet.

- Since this will be our 50th Reunion, we may have priority among other Classes when scheduling facilities. At least one other senior Class has already started conversations with one of the hotels we are considering; thus, the sooner we get a sense from the year.

- For preliminary planning purposes, we are considering the Broadmoor, the Antlers, and Doubletree Inn. All have sufficient banquet facilities. We anticipate the cost to range from 300 to 150 per night. Type comments below.

Reunion choices: 1) Summer; 2) Fall, weekend of the Navy game, streaming the game; 3) Fall, Army, streaming the game; 4) Fall, Army, at Falcon Stadium.

Lodging choices: 1) Facilities/nearby restaurants trump room size (ability to get included coffee/breakfast [NOT Starbucks] and a place to talk, nearby [walking distance] restaurants for squadron get-togethers); 2) lots of parking, preferably free; 3) bar/hospitality room w/lots of available (private/semi-private seating).

broadmoor, antlers, doubletree, in that order

Although my wife and I prefer the Broadmoor, we would rather have as many as possible attend, where price is not a deterrent. Therefore, we are fine with any venue.

The less expensive but with nice facilities is what I would prefer.
